Introducing The James Cancer Diagnostic Center

At The James, we understand that cancer is a complex disease that when detected early has more opportunities for successful treatment and cure. That's why we have opened The James Cancer Diagnostic Center. Our experts provide patients who may have cancer with direct, expedited access to diagnostic testing. The center offers a first step in determining each patient's specific type of cancer delivered by the experts who study and treat cancer every day.

To make a same-day or next-day appointment, visit cancer.osu.edu/diagnosticcenter or call 800-293-5066.

GAME NOTES

- The No. 3-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes go on the road for the first time in 2020 when they face No. 18 Penn State in a prime time showdown Saturday night at Beaver Stadium.
- The Buckeyes climbed two spots in the Associated Press poll this week following their 52-17 season-opening win over Nebraska last Saturday.
- Justin Fields was nearly flawless in the win, completing 20 of 21 passes for 276 yards and two touchdowns while rushing for 54 yards on 15 carries and scoring a TD. His .952 completion percentage was the best in a single game for an Ohio State quarterback attempting 11 or more passes.

- Ohio State has won six straight Big Ten road games and 14 conference games overall since the middle of the 2018 season.
- Five of the last nine meetings between Ohio State and Penn State have been decided by seven points or less. Included in those games has been an overtime contest (2014), a three-point PSU win in 2016 and back-to-back one-point wins for Ohio State in 2017 and 2018.
- Saturday will be the 36th all-time meeting between Ohio State and Penn State and the 27th since the Nittany Lions joined the Big Ten in 1993.
- The Buckeyes lead the series 20-14 and are 8-6 in games played in State College.

BUCKEYES ON THE FRONT LINES

KHADIJA ZANOTTO

Khadija Zanotto, a former member of the Ohio State synchronized swimming team, is among the many essential workers that have stepped up to the challenge during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Zanotto is the vice president of marketing and ecommerce for Zanotto's Markets in San Jose, Calif., and the third generation to work in her family's grocery stores. Many would assume her role keeps her away from the day-to-day bustle but COVID-19 has put her on the front line in the fight to meet the needs of her Silicon Valley neighborhood.

PARALLELS IN EXPERIENCE

"As a former team captain, my daily responsibility was to be a connection between the coach on deck and swimmers in the water," Zanotto said. "Today, I once again find myself a bridge between two important groups of people. I am the connection between our family business and the customers we serve. With a lot of new government regulations and standards, it's important to communicate clearly and lead by example."

Leading by example has been instrumental in Zanotto's approach to dealing with ramifications of COVID-19, from creating marketing plans to manning the register. And it all goes back to her time as a student-athlete in Columbus.

LEADING BY EXAMPLE

"Competing and training at a high level daily instilled many important qualities that have allowed me to lead my family's business during this uncertain time," Zanotto said. "I've been able to showcase my resourcefulness, creativity, determination, communication and the ability to execute under pressure. Being able to plan out and hone in on important tasks has allowed my staff and I to successfully add new cleaning protocols and to innovate and execute new ways of creatively sourcing products during shortages. There is a lot of pressure when competing at a collegiate level and student-athletes are great at keeping a steady and calm mind. During the many stresses of COVID-19 on both the business and me personally, I have been able to maintain clarity and calmly guide our business, employees and customers through the unknown. Being a student-athlete at Ohio State has prepared me for this. It is amazing to think that all the training I did then, has given me the confidence to perform now."

BE KIND

No day is the same when it comes to fighting against COVID-19 but Zanotto finds strength in those closest to her.

"It has felt like a marathon, each day I am ready to run and endure the day," Zanotto said. "It's exhausting, exhilarating and physically challenging. I am thankful to have my supportive husband, family and staff around me. Their health motivates me to keep implementing protocol and making our stores a safe place to shop during this pandemic."

As the world looks to move past the worst of the COVID-19 pandemic, Zanotto's advice is easy to follow - wear a mask in public spaces, limit your time in public spaces, practice social distancing and be kind to those on the front lines.

KHADIJA ZANOTTO - BACK THEN AS A BUCKEYE

Khadija was a four-year letterwinner with the synchronized swimming team between 2012 and 2015 ... helped the Buckeyes win two U.S. Collegiate National Championships ... four-time All-American ... earned a bronze medal at the 2013 World University Games ... three-time Academic All-Big Ten honoree ... graduated in 2015 with a degree in hospitality and business management ... originally from Los Gatos, Calif.
